

Regulations for Use of Passport

1. Love the Lord God and his Son, Jesus Christ. Also, love your neighbor as yourself.
2. Keep the commandments given by ancient and modern prophets.
3. Study the scriptures daily to increase your knowledge and love of their contents.
4. Pray always, especially when the journey seems long and hard. Let the Spirit be your foremost guide.
5. Make sacred covenants at appropriate times and then strive to keep them.
6. Repent as necessary (usually on a daily basis).
7. Serve cheerfully as requested in church callings and assignments. Be willing to help others in your family, your neighborhood, your community, and anywhere else life takes you.
8. Count your blessings at every stage and in every season of your journey
9. Look for good in your fellow travelers. Remember that they may be on difficult side trips of which you are not aware.
10. Endure well to the end. Trust in the Lord and his promises. Never give up

The greater part of our happiness or misery depends on our dispositions, and not on our circumstances.

Martha Washington

You are each unique and precious. Each of you has your own burdens and challenges, which give you the blessing of turning to the Lord for help.

The hope of the righteous shall be gladness.

Proverbs 10:28

Always walk toward the light, and the shadows of life will fall behind you.

Joy Saunders Lundberg

Regulations for Use of Passport

1. Love the Lord God and his Son, Jesus Christ. Also, love your neighbor as yourself.
2. Keep the commandments given by ancient and modern prophets.
3. Study the scriptures daily to increase your knowledge and love of their contents.
4. Pray always, especially when the journey seems long and hard. Let the Spirit be your foremost guide.
5. Make sacred covenants at appropriate times and then strive to keep them.
6. Repent as necessary (usually on a daily basis).
7. Serve cheerfully as requested in church callings and assignments. Be willing to help others in your family, your neighborhood, your community, and anywhere else life takes you.
8. Count your blessings at every stage and in every season of your journey
9. Look for good in your fellow travelers. Remember that they may be on difficult side trips of which you are not aware.
10. Endure well to the end. Trust in the Lord and his promises. Never give up

The greater part of our happiness or misery depends on our dispositions, and not on our circumstances.

Martha Washington

You are each unique and precious. Each of you has your own burdens and challenges, which give you the blessing of turning to the Lord for help.

The hope of the righteous shall be gladness.

Proverbs 10:28

Always walk toward the light, and the shadows of life will fall behind you.

Joy Saunders Lundberg